Polish Mother, Widowed Several Weeks Ago, Searches Long for Home for Baby.

WOULD NOT GIVE UP CHILD.

Her Story of Failure Wins Sympathy and Money-Boy Now a Regular at the Model Playgrounds.

The smallest and happiest visitor on the World's Fair grounds is St. Louis Statler Crooke, three weeks old.

He was born at the Inside Inn on St. Louis Luy, June 28. Little St. Louis's future was anything but reseate when he opened his tiny eyes to the world in the hig hostelry, He was not a welcome guest there. His mother, a trusted employ there, a Polish woman, whose language makes her a stranger in a new cuntry, bears the added misfortune of been robbed by death of her iushand only a few weeks ago. Little St. Louis must have known be and no real home, for he spent most of had no real home, for he spent most of the long warm days in sobbing over his sad fate.

His mother wrapped the tiny little pink and white bundle of humanity in a white blanket, and, unbeknown to the kind-hearted people of the hotel, started out to find the tiny babe a home of its own. She sought out some Polish people. She inquired at the homes for babies about the city. She was told there were several, and set out to visit them all. One after another she visited, but the answer given was the same.

The baby would be taken on condition that at the first opportunity it would be adopted into some kind-hearted family for keeping. The mother refused to part with her precious charge in this manner. Disappointed and sad-hearted, she returned to the hotel. When asked about her absence, she told her story of disappointed hope in finding a home for her lay.

In less than an home

In less than an hour a large sum was ollected among the office employes and turned over to the mother. With tears

In less than an hour a large sum was collected among the office employes and turned over to the mother. With tears streaming down her face she muttered her thanks in the strange-sounding words of the Polish language.

HAPPY IN NEW HOMIL

It was suggested that the baby be taken to the Model Playgrounds at the Fair for iender keeping. Accordingly little St. Louis found his way at last to a permanent home, among all sizes tempermanents and ages of baby compenions. He has the record for being the happiest baby in the Model Playgrounds Nursery. Yesterday, tucked in a tiny white go-cart, cared for by a colored maid, he was the center of an admiring crowd of visitors who had learned of his good lorune.

Little St. Louis is now enrolled as one of the "regulars" at the playgrounds. This is the distinguishing title given by Mrs. Ruth Hirschield, in charge of the children who make the playgrounds their permanent home. Every day a large number of bright-eyed little tots whose parents are doing the Fair flock to the playgrounds for safe-keeping and a good time with the other juvenile visitors to the Pair.

Congress in the Eighth District hinges on Grimes County, O. T. Hole of Houston carried two counties in vesterday's primaries, with 21 votes in the convention, 25 being necessary to a clidice.

Congressman John M. Pinckney has carried six counties, with 21 votes Grimes County, with 4 votes, is split between the "white man's" union, which is for Pinckney, and the regular Democrate, who are for Holt.

There will be a contest in the Congressional Convention and on the result will depend the nomination.

Returns from the Second District primaries are as yet very meager, but on the face of those at hand it appears that B. Cooper, the present Congressman, has been defeated by M. D. Brooke of San Augustine County. This result may be changed by later returns, and the Cooper managers are not willing to concede defeat.

FINANCIAL CIRCLES SHOW CONFIDENCE

Control of St. Louis Convention by Conservative Element and Crops Advance Prices.

THINK DEMOCRACY IS STRONG.

Stocks Enjoy Substantial Im provement, and Market Displays Tendency to Broaden Generally.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, July 10.-Stocks enjoyed substantial improvement in prices during the week, accompanied by a fair increasin activity. It was noticeable that the market displayed a tendency to broaden, while the strength and increased activity were not confined to any special list,

As might have been expected, considering the absolute stagnation of previous weeks, the little outburst of activity led the professional element to become to enthusiastic and overdo the perceptible change in sentiment.

Included, however, in the speculative purchases for the advance were buying orders of such character as to engender some confidence in the future. doubtedly many people have been waiting patiently for the clouds of doubt to lift which have hung rather heavy on the financial skies for many months.

Included in the events of the week which have helped to shape scattment along more hopeful lines in financial circles were the developments of the St. Louis convention. Crops and politics, it seems, were the governing factors which induced a spread of conference, timid and hesitating, as it undoubtedly was, but still apparent. patiently for the clouds of doubt to lift hesitating, as it undoubtedly was, but still apparent.

At the first reports from St. Louis of a definite character Wall street received the impression that the gold or sound money element in the Democratic party was in control of the situation and would undoubtedly nominate a man as their standard bearer opposed to radical policies. In that nomination by the so-called conservative element, financial circles saw the death knell of free silver and other financial heresies.

It was only a month or two prior that some doubts were expressed as to which wing of the Democratic party would be in control. Discussion was rife at the time whether the "safe and same" element would be able to control the nomination.

FEARS ARE DISSIPATED.

PLEASING SUMMER BILLS ON VIEW LAST NIGHT.

A series of important changes were nade in the Delmar Garden "Louisiana" last night which gave the performance very much the character of a new pro-duction. The greatest change was the appearance of Maude Williams, a former favorite at Delmar. She was substituted for Miss Lambert, the statuesque mezzo-soprano, who has been singing the part of Columbia ever since the opening perform ance.

While Maude Lambert will be missed, no more appropriate substitute than Miss Williams cauld be found. She sang the Columbia music capitally last night. In place of Mr. Heindls "Kiss Song." which Miss Lambert has been sluging with such success, Miss Williams substituted a song by Mr. Hall, entitled "Tis Honor to Win by the Power of Love." which was written especially for her and in which the sentiment is more in keeping with the situation.

ment is more in keepins with the sanation.

Mr. Heindl's "My Louisiana" was given a new settling and was sung by Miss Merton in the character of Dixie. It is one of the most pleasing negro melodies heard in a long time. A new transparency in the first act, showing the future of the wilderness of Louisiana, was substituted for the little picture which has heretofore been doing service. The change is a marked improvement from a spectacular standpoint. standpoint, Corinne appeared at the Highlands. This is her first engagement since her return from London, where she sang in "Carmita," and piensed the English. In two pretty costumes, the latter a Spanish street singer's, the little prima donna appeared as winsome as ever. Her singing of "Pomona" in Spanish her mandolin playing, an accomplishment of which she was always proud, proved a most diverting feature of her performance.

Jim Morton said many things and intomated several songs, one more nonsensical than the others but that is just what his listeners like. The absolute nonsense of his discourse makes up Morton's forte. A joke with a point to it would not be the thing in his line of merrymaking.

Rauschele, the European impersonator, outshone all predecessors by the fidelity of his impersonations. His mask of President Roosevelt was the most striking in his series of portrayais. The Schuyier Sisters, Josephine Ainsley and Papinta were the other entertainers.

One of the most attractive groups in the exhibit "Two Thousand Years Ago" at Grand and Laclede avenues is the ninth, presenting the Messlah as the children's friend. On his way through the land he has stopped for a moment's rest. Mothers are bringing their little children to him. They are of all sizes and are artistically shown in wax. This group is generally admired. erally admired.

Kiralfy's "Louisiana" attracted a big natronage to the Odeon. The piece now proceeds with a smoothness that should proceeds with a smoothness that should please even a producer of Bolossy Kiraify's experience. The radium dance has to be repeated as often now as when first given several weeks ago. The girls take great pride in making this feature a unique spectacle. Harriet Burt appeared for the first time last evening.

She sang a number of topical songs, accompanied by a pickaninny chorus. Frederick Bowers began a second week in his musical transformation act. The house is cooled by a great number of improved electric fans. The ventilation, too, tends to keep down the temperature,

Mr. and Mrs. Robyns in "The Counsel for the Defense" are prominent on the programme at the Suburban. Both are claver performers and the playlet gives them equal opportunities. The Robinson sisters sing and dance. Maceo's trained dog is seen in new tricks. Loro and Payne sketches by Jimmy and Maude Ryan, Burt
